

The Miner.

FAREWELL

Some unknown person has sent us the following mournful wail, from Camp Verde, with a request for its publication, and, believing that it has sufficient merit, we give it to our readers:

CAMP LINCOLN, July 11, 1868.

Farewell, dear friend, a kind farewell,
I may ne'er see thee more.
On earth, my sorrow soon will end,
My life will soon be o'er.

I've wandered far from friends and home,
My heart with anguish given.
I've but one wish—God grant it me,
That we may meet in Heaven.

Perhaps below we ne'er shall meet,
Yet we may meet above,
In Heaven's bright and happy home
Where all is peace and love.

God guard and watch o'er thee my friend
And grant me this my prayer,
That we may meet again in Heaven
And dwell together there.

Apple Tree Observations.

A correspondent of an Eastern paper favors the public with his experience in propagating, cultivating and doctoring apple trees. He says:

"In my travels I have noticed the decay of apple trees, and what I consider a remedy. If the top overbalances the root, the root needs a stimulus by dressing of some kind, lime or ashes, ashes mixed with muck. When the root will not support the top, it is very easy to detect the deficiency. The outer and extreme limbs commence to decay. The great error in cultivating apple trees around the trunk, as I have noticed where trees have been cultivated, the trees as a general practice have been banked up, and when ploughing the furrow has been turned against the tree. I have a few apple trees in my garden of half an acre, that furnish bread for four in family, pays the tax of $30 yearly, and we raise some potatoes, beans, currants and gooseberries, with six square rods of strawberries. The way my apple trees are cultivated is to hoe a row in the spring, the ground kept level until the spring rains are over, and then the ground is kept drained until the cold weather commences, then banked up. If the tree is kept banked up in summer, the top loses the office of irrigation; the banking is a non-conductor."

A BEDBUG ANTIDOTE.—A lady who tried this simple method of extirpating the repulsive bedbug, is kind enough to give a profession of faith in its efficacy through the columns of a newspaper. If any of your readers need a sure remedy for bedbugs they can have mine and cleanse the house of this troublesome vermin without expense. They have only to wash with salt water, filling the cracks where they frequent with salt, and you may look in vain for them. Salt seems inimical to bedbugs, and they will not trail through it. I think it preferable to all ointments, and the buyers need no certificates as to its genuineness.

As ignorant fellow who was about to get married, resolved to make himself perfect in the responses of the marriage service, but by mistake learned the office of Baptism for those of riper years. So, when the clergyman asked him in the church, "Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wife?" he answered, in a solemn tone, "I renounce them all." The astonished minister said, "I think you are a fool," to which he replied, "All this I steadfastly believe."

A CORRESPONDENT of the Boston Commercial Bulletin says: "There is one thing about Spain that I like—one remnant of greatness that hath the true ring to it—the Spanish dollar. Everywhere it commands its full value: and it is current in every country under the sun."

"I say, Pompey," said one freedman to another, "dis chile has tried lots of gift fares and tings for a prize, but neber could draw anything at all." "Well, Caesar, I'd vise you to try a hand-cart; de chances are a thousand to one dat you could draw dat."

When Theodore Tilton first commenced editorial labor on the Independent, he received a salary of $800 a year. Now he receives $600 a month.

GREAT talent renders a man famous; great merit, respect; great learning, esteem; but good breeding alone insures love and affection.

THE French have discovered that the white of an egg, given in sweetened water, is a sure cure for croup. The remedy is to be repeated until a cure is effected.

A NEW YORK church which lately tried the experiment of having the contribution boxes passed by handsome young women is now called "The church of the Holy Waiter Girls."

WHEN young ladies be said to be economical? When they resort to tight lacing to prevent waistfulness.

THE man who got wise by eating sage cheese has a brother who proposes to become skilful in the fashionable dances by dieting on hops.

WHEN a cow or ox gets choked, it is said that immediate relief may be obtained by strapping up the fore leg and compelling the animal to jump.

At White Pine, the wages of first class quartz miners has fallen to $4 per diem. At Grass Valley, Cal., $3 per day rules.

THE Round Table has been merged into the New York Citizen, and the united capital and talent of Mr. Henry Sedley and Mr. Roosevelt will be expended on one journal.
